Privacy Law reform - will your organisation comply?

A recent Australian Law Reform Commission report has recommended a large number of important changes to the Commonwealth privacy laws.

Those changes are likely to have a dramatic impact on the policies and practices of all companies and organisations in Australia (and a number of government owned corporations) in relation to the collection, retention and use of private information, such as client databases.

This seminar will cover the following key topics:

- Update on key changes in the Commonwealth privacy legislation
- Understanding the process, procedures and penalties in handling information and data under the privacy act
- Common risk areas for organisations
- How to effectively apply privacy requirements within your organisation
