

Holding Redlich & JBA Urban Planning Consultants Planning & Environment Breakfast Seminar

Holding Redlich and JBA Urban Planning Consultants invite you to their second breakfast seminar on The New Planning Structure. This seminar is entitled "Preparing your Application". This seminar is designed to keep you up to date with key planning developments.

Preparing your Application

With the current controversies enveloping the planning system, there is a heightened need to demonstrate propriety in dealings with Councils and government departments and agencies. A central way of doing this when seeking development consents or other planning approvals is to ensure that applications are properly prepared.

The increasing complexity of planning requirements and the growing demands of authorities and opponents of development also mandate transparent, comprehensive, relevant, succinct and persuasive applications.

This seminar will discuss what is now required, post the introduction of most of the changes under the New Planning System, to comply with the Department of Planning's "Toolkit" and when preparing applications, Environmental Reports, EISs and SEEs.

We will also discuss changes to development contributions, the increasing emphasise on ecologically sustainable development and other factors taken into account in the determination of applications.

This seminar will be co-presented by Holding Redlich and JBA Urban Planning Consultants.
